

Emile Cohl Art Academy Inspires Talent With Access To A Fully-Sponsored Education Program

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA (April 3, 2019)—The Emile Cohl Art Academy is disrupting traditional higher learning entrance requirements through a fully-sponsored education program in Los Angeles. By interrupting traditional college admission processes, ECAA is establishing an opportunity for talented and motivated students to create their own success.

Much like its groundbreaking counterparts Rice, NYU Medical School, Lebron James' I Promise School, 42 Silicon Valley and the Curtis Institute of Music offer fully-sponsored education in medicine, arts, and engineering, Emile Cohl Art Academy is expanding a nonprofit equal opportunity for talented individuals to attain a specialized education without the worry of overwhelming debt that accompanies traditional tuition requirements.

Diversity empowers creativity, and diversity starts with access.

The highly-intense three-year program shifts the weight from mainstream education institutes that require costly and confining admission practices to a collaborative artistic environment that focuses on post-graduate success in the gaming, animation, illustration, and visual effects industries.

The Emile Cohl Art Academy's admission requirements begin with portfolio submissions that undergo a non-biased review by a panel of artists, teachers, and recruiters. Gender, age, race, religion, background, or current financial circumstances do not dictate acceptance: Only talent and motivation allow applicants to move forward in the selection process. Finalists are invited to the Academy's campus for an onsite evaluation before the pool is refined to include 40 students who will establish the charter semester's class.

March 2019 marks the acquisition of the 2828 S Grand Ave, Los Angeles, CA 90007 building, where talented instructors and students will occupy 13,000 square feet of the fully remodeled building designed as a collaborative assembly that fosters ambition, growth, and prosperity in art education.

Beginning September 2020, the Emile Cohl Art Academy opens its doors, welcoming the inaugural class of future entertainment industry titans whose artistic talent is their source of entry, where dedication to their craft serves as their only payment.
